

Guardsman fencing

Innovative design and creative technology has produced demand for a hybrid fencing product which can provide security for medium risk installations, but also maintain an aesthetic traditional appearance.

The Paramount Steel Fence Guardsman system solves the problem in one fencing system. This is a popular choice of fence for industrial areas, recreation grounds, retail parks and county show grounds.

Guardsman is a tough fencing solution, it stands up to the day-to-day rigours of life and is resistant to vandalism and forced entry attempts. Guardsman also offers an unobtrusive solution near residential areas or heritage sites, whilst maintaining security.

The vertical panel can be supplied infilled with either round tube or square box section. Both types are constructed so that the vertical bar passes through the horizontal rail, offering an exceptional resistance to attack while still looking superb in any environment. Guardsman perimeter fencing can be specified in different styles, including RHS or RSC for the horizontal rails, and four different topping options to complement the design of the fence panel.

Guardsman has the added advantage of optional base plated posts, permitting the fence to be mounted onto brick walls and decorative features.

Guardsman fence panels are manufactured for installation over level ground. If the proposed site has undulating ground levels, we offer raked or stepped panels which are produced to suit your site-specific requirements.

Guardsman offers a cost-saving opportunity as erection of the fence system is straightforward using the assembled panels.

Our optional fixing-less design also saves time and labour costs on site. Two options are available for attaching the panels to the fence posts: the traditional loose cleat and secure pin is a popular choice, however the welded lug and slip slide option, which fits into the box section rail, can offer significant advantages in some installations.

Guardsman is also available with a range of matching manual or automatic gates to match the chosen specification. Guardsman is compatible with most industry leading perimeter intruder detection systems (PIDS); covert mounting of electronic intruder detection is available on this product.

Supplied galvanised to BS EN 1461 with optional powder coating in any RAL colour.
