

Architectural fencing

Manufactured in Stoke-on-Trent, our range of decorative railings has been used extensively around the UK and exported to 15 different countries.

We design the Regency architectural fence on an individual basis to suit each application. The bespoke design offers both protection and boundary enhancement through clever and technologically advanced computer-aided design. Applications have included palaces, country houses, diplomatic properties, embassies and heritage sites.

The possibilities of configurations, material specifications and design are endless, with the option of making a truly unique architectural fence complemented by matching access gates.

Paramount offer a range of stylish and contemporary hand-forged finials, which can be configured to provide a design to suit the client commissioning the project. Our finials can be viewed interactively through our web site, offering confidence to the end user and specifier that once your architectural fence arrives, it will meet your most exacting standard.

Architectural fencing is supplied in panel form, and can be easily erected with minimum disruption to the property.

Where a design already exists, we can offer to match most products which have already been installed; this service is particularly useful on heritage sites.
